Staffing approved, bookings pouring in for 2004 Forts tours

Planning is going ahead for the 2004 season at Fort George and Buckingham House Provincial Historic Site, and early indications point toward a great season.

Funding has been approved for four interpreters this year, with the senior interpreter to be hired directly by the government and paid on the government wage scale, while the other three positions will be part of an interpretive services contract with a local municipality. Although job postings have not yet been advertised, applications are coming in for interpreter positions.

Bookings for visits by school groups are also coming in, as site supervisor Ross Stromberg continues his round of extension program visits. He is working on a new fur trade program, this one exploring the role of the native people and what the fur trade meant to them.

Last year's upgrades at the original fort sites will give visitors a better picture of life in the forts. Palisade corners, bastions and gates were constructed, with most of the work completed by Job Corps personnel, who cut, peeled, pointed and installed the poles. Facility supervisor Marianne Mack said Job Corps, who did the work as part of their learning process, saved the Forts close to $27,000, "a tremendous amount of assistance. It's just wonderful."

The new landscaping in front of the interpretive centre, along with a performance stage and demonstration area, have given the area a whole new look which Mack says is "far more attractive." Funds left from the upgrading project will go toward materials for a handicapped access outhouse, which along with a storage shed for archaeological dig boxes and other program equipment, is next on the list in the Forts' site development plan.

Chamber AGM tomorrow

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce will hold their 2004 Annual Meeting tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. in the Empress Banquet Room.

A newly revamped set of bylaws will be up for approval at the meeting, in addition to the election of a new slate of officers for the coming year. Only one member of the current executive has agreed to take an office again this year. Treasurer Rod Randall says he will be happy to serve another year on the executive, however acting president Jonny Nielsen says he will not be running. Secretary Suzan Bartholomew has served her maximum two-year term in that post and says she is not planning to run for another office.

Paul Pelletier, who hopes to run as the new Conservative Party of Canada's candidate for the Westlock-St. Paul region in the next federal election, will be a special guest at the meeting, which Nielsen says will give Chamber members an opportunity to "put him in the hot seat" and learn more about the potential candidate and his platform.

Elk Point will join the Senior Friendly initiative

Elk Point Town Council agreed Monday night to join St. Paul's Senior Friendly community initiative. Elk Point has a relatively high senior population and this initiative is aimed at making the community a safer and more convenient place for seniors to live and conduct business, as well as to participate as fully as possible in community activities.

The Senior Friendly program, launched in 1999, helps communities, businesses and organizations recognize the myths about seniors and provide services in a way that addresses the special needs of the aging population. Recognizing their needs, respecting their contributions and including them in community activities are all part of the program. Senior Friendly is seen as a way to tap seniors energy, insight and time, and to save money because active and involved seniors stay healthy, remain in their own homes longer and continue to be a vital part of the community.

Council also agreed to once again nominate Elk Point Citizens On Patrol (COPS) program for the Solicitor General's crime prevention award. The COPS program is credited with decreasing levels of vandalism in the community.

Town manager Myron Goyan will represent Elk Point at the Dollars to Sense energy management workshop sponsored by Municipal Affairs on March 9. The workshop focuses on teaching participants how to analyze energy use in buildings and find ways to reduce consumption.

Another workshop hosted by Alberta Municipal Affairs deals with funding agreements and goes in mid-March. The Provincial government is encouraging municipalities to increase cooperation by way of joint agreements.

Three Town councillors who sit on the Assessment Appeal Board have been authorized to attend a one day course to increase their expertise in that field.

Elk Point will be sending a team to Glendon's third annual Pyrogy Spiel for employees and elected officials of north-east Alberta municipalities. The spiel goes March 6, and Elk Point is hoping to work their way up in the standings. Cold Lake and Glendon won the first two annual spiels.

A very preliminary audit of the Town's $1.8 million 2003 operating budget shows that there could be a very small deficit. Council passed a motion to take funds from general reserves if it is necessary to cover a deficit.

A request from Elk Point Elementary School for new playground construction was referred to Council's recreation committee for further study.

RCMP Sgt. Brian Quist visited Council and presented the statistics for 2003. He told Council that the detachment staff will increase approximately March 1 when a recruit is added to the roster.

County eliminates rebates for inspections

By Michelle Huley
St. Paul Journal.

People planning to build a new home or renovate an existing one won't be getting a break on inspection fees from the county any longer.

County of St. Paul council approved a new fee schedule, which will take effect on March 1, at its Feb. 10 meeting.

"We found, with the rebate program, it wasn't working," administrator Kim Heyman explained to council. "It didn't motivate people to comply (with required building inspections)."

"And with these fees we're just breaking even," Councillor Frank Sloan stressed.

Reeve Robert Bouchard explained council has a deficit because of the rebates, adding $45,000 in rebates should have already been paid out but haven't been.

"That would have been refunded but the work hasn't been completed."

Bouchard said compliance since the rebate was offered was compared to the number of people who complied prior, and little had changed. "If they're not going to comply anyway, there's no reason to continue the rebates."

The fee for a single family home with attached garage, and a value of up to $200,000, will now be $600.

Previously it was $800, with a $400 refund. Inspections for gas, electrical and sewage are separate from the building inspection.

Fees for a modular home will be $400, and a mobile home, $200. Inspection for additions or renovations will cost $150 minimum, with a 450 fee charged for any required additional inspections. A deck inspection will cost $100, and a septic tank and field $100, or $50 for just a holding tank, and $50 for any other minor work.

A full schedule of rates is available at the county office.

"All in all, we didn't go up, we're just not giving refunds anymore," Councillor Don Mudryk said. "That's the difference."

"Basically, we're back to our rates from 2000," said Bouchard. "And we're going to try to clean up our non-compliance."

Heyman said any of the people who should have received rebates will be sent a letter informing them of the change, and giving them an opportunity to obtain the refund.

School board lifts student travel moratorium

By Jay Gutteridge
St. Paul Journal

Students in St. Paul Education Regional Division can once again jet around the world with their peers as the school board agreed to lift its moratorium on international travel.

A delegation with the St. Paul Regional High School Travel Club presented its case to lift the ban at the board's meeting on Feb. 11.

The moratorium was put in place shortly after Sept. 11, 2001 due to safety concerns stemming from terrorism.

"We are certainly going to, as a travel organization, spend a lot more time on safety and security," said travel club coordinator Tim Rogers.

Liability was also a concern. The delegation - including Rogers, parent representative Ken Brodziak and student representative Melissa Semeniuk - presented an example of the contract students and parents from the Northern Lights School Division must sign if traveling internationally.

"When we have to have a contract written by lawyers, I have a lot of concerns about that," said Trustee Shelley Dyck.

However, the motion to lift the moratorium passed in a vote which needed a tiebreak from Chairman Lorne Bury.

Penmanship contest
The division's Alberta beef support penmanship contest winners have been announced.

The contest saw each participant write the same text about the Alberta beef industry to be judged on their handwriting skills.

"There were some difficult decisions to make," said Rudkowsky. "In each group it was easy to pick the top two or three, but picking the winner from them was difficult."

Students all set for fun at Friday's Valentines dance

This Friday is the Students' Union-sponsored Valentines Dance at F. G. Miller. Anticipation for the dance has been building since the first week of the month, when campaigning for the dance began. Students are allowed to invite a maximum of two guests to the dance. These guests must be attending High School in Alberta, and the office must approve a guest two days before the dance begins or that person cannot come to the dance. The limitations placed on student participation, and the policy of no one being allowed to reenter the school after they have left, are in place to protect everyone involved in the event. The cost for a ticket is $10.00 and students are encouraged to buy their tickets during lunchtime all this week.

With student cooperation, we hope to make this dance another successful and safe school event.

The Students' Union has just begun a magazine sale fundraiser. Canadian Community Reading Plan is the company that the magazines will be ordered from. They guarantee the lowest price for your subscription, so if you want to order a magazine and you have a coupon for a price lower than the one listed on the order form you send your coupon in and pay the lower price.

Forty per cent of money collected stays in the school, so this is a wonderful fundraising project for funding school activities. Last year the Students' Union made around $1500 from this project, this year by selling 200 subscriptions we hope to raise over $2000. The money that is raised goes to fund various projects, including subsidies to the athletic teams, the Above the Limit prizes, and assistance to assorted smaller clubs and projects. The entire school is involved in the project, so if you wish to order a subscription you can approach most students. The last day of sales will be on Monday, February 23rd.

Garden club ready to grow

Elk Point Further Education's Garden Club is just waiting for the day when they can get out their trowels and start digging. In the meantime, however, they can plan and dream about the season to come.

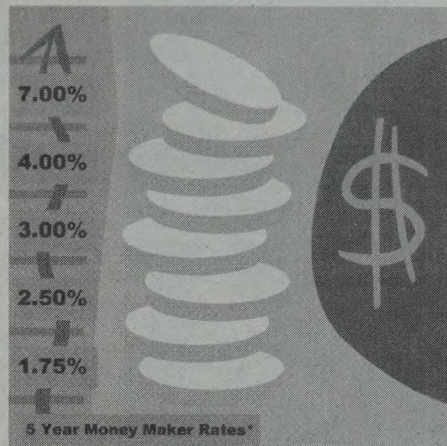

They held their first meeting of the season on January 20, and spent much of the time in setting up a program for future meetings. The February meeting goes tonight, and members are invited to bring along their favorite gardening videos, books and magazines for inspiration.

Upon hearing an old legend that the best sweet peas would result from planting the seeds from sunrise on March 17, the group pondered possible ways to do that - including with an ice pick or electric drill - at the March 16 meeting. Plans for future meetings include another clean-up and pruning session at Parkview Extended Care in May. Last year's efforts removed a considerable amount of dead material and encouraged healthy new growth to take its place. The group also may hold another plant exchange this year to distribute excess bedding plants and perennial seedlings. A garden tour is also planned, so members can visit their colleagues' yards and see for themselves, "how does your garden grow?"

Question: What's new in this picture?

Answer: No flame

Since 1996, the flaring of solution gas into the air from energy facilities in Alberta has been reduced by 62%.

This reduction in flaring is due to the cooperation of the public, the Clean Air Strategic Alliance (CASA), industry, the government, and the Alberta Energy and Utilities Board (EUB).

If you have a question or a concern about oil and gas development in your community, contact your local EUB Field Centre and ask for EnerFAQs 6: Flaring. It is also available on the EUB Web Site at www.eub.gov.ab.ca/BBS/public/EnerFAQs/EnerFAQS6.htm

Red alert questions for finding reliable nutrition information

It's a jungle out there - a nutrition information jungle, that is! Whether you're looking at books, magazines, TV or the Internet, there is something on just about every food and nutrition topic. Who and what can you really believe?

Dietitians of Canada suggests that, the next time you read or hear nutrition news, ask yourself these 5 Red Alert Questions:

Are there promises made for a quick fix or instant cure?

Does the claim sound too good to be true?

Do you have to buy any special products?

Is the recommendation based on personal success stories or testimonials?

Does the advice contradict Canada's Food Guide to Healthy Eating?

If you answered yes to any of the questions, chances are the information is not trustworthy. Miraculous promises and claims about special products are just too good to be true.

If you're like many people, you use the internet for a quick source of information. It's important to know that Internet information is not screened or regulated. While there are many reliable nutrition websites, there are many that have misinformation. Judge the information you read by using the 5 Red Alert questions.

There are some websites that you can depend on for reliable information. For example, the Dietitians of Canada award winning website, www.dietitians.ca, is filled with interactive tools, tips and factsheets for healthy eating.

The Canadian Health Network, www.canadian-health-network.ca, is a national, Internet-based health information service. With content from over 500 non-profit health organizations, this site provides health information you can trust. Take a look at their collection of healthy eating resources. Dietitians of Canada is an Affiliate Partner of the Canadian Health Network.

Health Canada is the department of the federal government responsible for helping Canadians maintain and improve their health. At their site, www.hc-sc.gc.ca, you will find nutrition information including Canada's Food Guide to Healthy Eating, the Body Mass Index and many more resources.

For trustworthy food, diet and nutrition information, talk to a Registered Dietitian. With their specialized training, dietitians can translate scientific nutrition information into easy to understand, practical advice. For more information, contact Linda Fox, RD at the Elk Point Health Centre.

Winning skip says he had help

Leonard Gadowski, who skipped the Grand Challenge winners in the 2004 Oilmen's Bonspiel, said he had help getting into the final game, and not only from his teammates.

Curling against Clarence Romanick in the semi-final, it all came down to a tie-breaking draw for the button. Gadowski says he choked on his first rock and didn't even reach the rings. As Romanick went to the hack, Gadowski "looked up to heaven" and asked his late heroes, "If I ever needed you guys, I need you now." They must have been there sweeping, because Clarence's rock went right on through, giving both skips another chance to draw.

Who were these mysterious helpers? Gadowski says that Doug Berg, his first skip when he was learning the game at age eight in 1968,

John Zayonce, Dennis Maas and his father, Albert Gadowski, were "there in spirit, looking after us." The four top curlers taught Gadowski the game and encouraged his early efforts. "You couldn't find four guys who were better ambassadors of the sport." He feels these men left a strong legacy in Elk Point's curling community, and "big shoes for our generation to fill."

Simple pleasures and Samaritans

The days are warmer now but it was only a few weeks ago when the weather was very cold and we received a lot of snow. In other words, winter arrived in a dramatic way. The amount of snow we received in one time was the most we had received for many years. In regard to the cold, we knew it would arrive some time during the winter. But what happened during those cold, snowy, wintry day, many stories could be written. One such story has been brought to my attention. It occurred with a senior couple who live east of Elk Point. They were coming back to their home from the town of Elk Point after picking up some needed supplies when they turned into their driveway and ran into some problems. With all the snow and the conditions being slippery, their car became stuck. After trying to remedy the situation by themselves, they discovered they were in trouble. Meanwhile, on the highway beside their home, several vehicles drove by and continued on their way. Then it happened: one vehicle stopped and offered to help. This person assessed the situation and then said he would go and get what was needed to help as well as bring some more people to help. All of this was done and the senior couple's car was removed from its problem. This senior couple is so very appreciative for the help received from Dale and Kevin that they really wanted to say THANK YOU and

THANK YOU. It was so nice to learn that there are still people in the world who willingly volunteer their time to help others when they see a need to do so. You were good Samaritans.

Thank you, gentlemen.

There is a poem by LaVerne P. Larson called "Simple Pleasures" which describes the feeling one receives when something like the above happens. I will only quote a few verses.

deanna EASTHOPE

from the FCSS desk

Simple Pleasures

"The very simple pleasures
In this big world of ours
Will bring you truest happiness
And let you touch the stars.

They are all around you
As you go along your way:
Gold and pink dawn of the morning,
Crimson sun at close of day.

Little deeds of kindness,
Asking no reward,
Yet weaving hope and faith
Into a strong and lasting cord.

How great the simple pleasures
Too numerous to count,
And if you stop to see them

Never too soon to think ahead to gardening

By Daphne Schnurer
Elk Point Public Library

The nice weather we have had recently will have us all dreaming of spring. With nice weather comes all those outdoor projects.

Some great gardening material at the library includes...

"Gardening for Canadians for Dummies" - your green thumb guide to growing flowers, vegetables, trees and shrubs. Discover how to determine the best plants for your zone., design the perfect garden for you, keep your plants healthy, use compost, fertilizer and safe pesticides.

"Ortho's Plant Selector" includes more than 150 lists of flowers, trees, shrubs, vines and ground covers all listed by climate zone - a guide to planting for dry climates and choosing plants by appearance, use and cultivation.

"Lasagna Gardening" - a new layering system for beautiful gardens with no digging, no tilling, no weeding - no kidding! Definitely my kind of gardening!

"Better Homes and Gardens Container Gardens" - your guide to designing and planting beautiful potted gardens anywhere. This book features outstanding ideas for window boxes, hanging baskets, all-season planters and more.

Also, from one of Canada's most popular gardeners, Lois Hole, we have quite a few titles, from bulbs and perennials to roses and vegetable gardening. Lois always offers her unique perspective, always helpful and informative and never afraid to explore.

Check out our wide selection of gardening magazines, too, for great ideas.

Thank You!

A big thank you to Len Cole for expanding our outside book return. It is much dryer, bigger and greatly appreciated.

School board lifts travel moratorium

The winners will receive a certificate and an engraved pen set presented by their local trustee.

The winners are: Grade 5 Boys - Mel Brooker of Elk Point Elementary, Grade 5 Girls - Shelby Cardinal of Ashmont Elementary.

Grade 8 Boys - Zachary Soprovich of Two Hills High, Grade 8 Girls - Shaylie Thoben of Racette.

Grade 11 Boys - Levi Bristow of Heinsburg, Grade 11 Girls - Emily Markham of St. Paul Regional.

Electoral boundaries

The board may have to wait if it wants to change its electoral boundaries.

As the board represents both Catholic and public schools, there is discussion about how to represent that fact which may result in new boundaries.

"Currently the board is working with the Alberta Catholic Schools Trustees Association to formalize its Catholic-public duality," said Champagne in an interview after the meeting. "Once that happens, we may want a trustee or more than one designated as a Catholic trustee."

If that happens, the boundaries may be restructured to reflect the change, he said.

Champagne told the board the School Act states any changes to boundaries must be made before March 1 in an election year.

"There's nothing we really can do about it at this point. Our hands are tied," said Buryn.

Deputy superintendent Carmen Brodziak said she would call Learning Minister Lyle Oberg to follow up on the issue.

Myrnam curlers

The board will send a letter of congratulations to members of the Kitt curling rink from Myrnam School, who won the Juvenile Northerns in Sherwood Park.

The kids will play at provincials in Innisfail from Feb. 27 to 29.

Library agreement

The board accepted a Joint Public and School Libraries Agreement with the County of St. Paul.

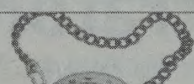

The agreement formalizes practices for schools whose libraries are also public libraries, such as Mallaig and Ashmont, said Champagne in an interview after the meeting.

The board has a similar agreement with the County of Two Hills regarding Myrnam School's library.
